The aim of this research is to find out how the media packages news about the Johnny G Plate corruption case on the online media portals MetroTVnews.Com and Tempo.Co. This research method uses qualitative methods with the framing analysis model of Robert N. Entman. The data collection method in this research uses documentation techniques where the researcher collects all the news on the media websites MetroTvNews.com and Tempo.co. The results of this study are the media portal MetroTvNews.com showing the positive side of Johnny G Plate. Johnny G Plate is said to have not yet been proven guilty due to a lack of evidence of committing a money laundering crime and the NasDem party also rejected Johnny's determination because it felt he was innocent. Meanwhile, Tempo.co focuses more on the state losses that occur to remote village communities because internet access is not installed and discusses the perpetrators involved in enjoying BTS corruption. Because if you stop at Johnny, you will be suspected of political interference in determining the suspect.
